This being the principal grade unprotected by the letter of the law, and the grade most directly appealing to its spirit, it was admitted that the success or failure of the Administration will stay, which is a triumph for Civilin keeping its reform promises must Service Reform as interpreted by Mr. hinge upon whether the ranks of the chiefs of division were invaded by the spoilsmen or carefully guarded and improved in the interest of reform. The place-hunters at once filed claims for every one of these positions, and influence was brought to bear for a clean sweep. The President's position was understood to be that the good men should retain their places and the inefficient give place to new men, with a view to rendering the service non-partisan, increasing its efficiency, if possible, and eventually placing it in the classified and protected service. After the lapse of nearly five months, it is interesting to look back upon what has been done in this respect. The majority of chiefs of division are employed in the Treasury Department. When Mr. Manning assumed control of the Department there were seventy-three of these chiefs, all appointed under Republican rule, many promoted from lower grades; many efficlent and faithful; some selected on political or personal considerations; some totally unfit for their places. After nearly five months of constant and earnest fighting for these places, seventeen of the seventy-three chiefs life is a happy one. have been displaced and the resignaclerkships. Frightful Case of a Colored Man

I contracted a fearful case of blood poison in 1883. I was treated by some of the best physicians in Atlanta. They used the old remedies of Mercury and Potash, which brought on rheumatism and impaired my digestive organs. Every joint in me was swollen and full of pain. When I was given up to die, my physicians thought it would be a good time to test the virtue of Swift's Specific. When I commenced taking S. S. S. the physician said I could not live two weeks under the ordinary treatment. He commenced to give me the medicine strictly according to directions, which I continued for several months. I took nothing else, and commenced to improve from the very first. Soon therhoumatism left me, my appetite became all right, and the ulcers, which the doctor said were the most frightful he had ever seen, began to heal, and by the 1st of October, 1884, I was a well man again. I am stronger now than I ever was before, and weigh more. S. S. has saved me from an early grave.
